The chef at the restaurant The Golden Dome does not cook food the two mothers prefer.	3	2	6	We have a test-dinner on site two weeks before the wedding. If it's really poor, we must come up with another plan.	If the food for the party is not satisfactory for the two mothers, we in the project group must praise it and thus close the discussion.	Igor and Henriette, who best know what their mothers like, have a test-dinner at the restaurant two weeks before the party.
The head waiter at the restaurant The Golden Dome does not know both cultures and thereby offends either one or the other.	2	2	4	We check the head waiter when we check the restaurant. If, during the test-dinner, we find that the waiter is 100% Danish, for example, we can ask if they can get a Russian assistant waiter.	If the damage has been done, the rest of us in the project team must try to create a diversion.	Igor and Henriette concerning to the test-dinner. Tine and Lærke will come up a diversion
The Golden Dome forgets our reservation or is otherwise unable to host the event.	4	1	4	We call a week before and the day before and remind them of the agreement.	Should things still go wrong, we have a list of three excellent restaurants – but not Russian-Danish – who on request thought they could handle a wedding party of 12 people without notice.	Tine
